Trading

1. What is Forex?

The foreign exchange ('currencies, Forex or FX') is a market where participants buy, sell, exchange and speculate on currencies. In particular, it consists of trading one currency for another, ex: EURUSD. This means trading the Euro against the US dollar. Forex and related markets is the largest and most liquid financial market in the world, where the average trade consists of trillions per day. Trading foreign exchange may have various advantages because of its transparency, direct dealing, significant trading volumes, extreme liquidity and the great number of participants in the market including governments, central banks, banks, financial institutions, corporations, private investors, etc.

2. Do I need to have any previous trading experience?

Previous experience is not required, however the more knowledge you have, the higher are chances to be successful in trading.

3. What are the trading hours?

Due to the different time zones of the major financial centres, starting from New York to Australia, Tokyo, Hong Kong, and Europe, the Forex market is open 24 hours a day (except on weekends), usually from Sunday 00:00 until Friday 23.59.59 Cyprus local time (GMT+2 Winter time, GMT+3 Summer time).

4. What are the risks involved in trading?

To view the risks involved in trading, kindly refer to our Risk Disclosure Statement:

http://www.topfx.com/pdfs/Risk_Disclosure.pdf

5. What are Forex instruments?

Forex Instruments are the products or ways of trading in foreign exchange.

6. What are the Major currency pairs?

Currencies that are traded against the US dollar are called Majors and make up the greatest number of foreign currency trades:

- USD (US Dollar)
- EUR (Euro)
- GBP (British pound)
- JPY (Japanese yen)
- CHF (Swiss Franc)

- AUD (Australian dollar)

- CAD (Canadian dollar)

examples: EURUSD/GBPUSD/JPYUSD

7. What is a Lot?

A lot is the standard unit size of a transaction.

Depending on the financial instrument traded, the lot size is determined; e.g. a standard lot traded, for Forex trading, usually consists of a contract size of 100,000 (units of the base currency). The contract size is then proportionate as per the lot indication - standard, mini or micro lot. As a result, a standard contract size of the GBPUSD is 100,000 GBP then the mini lot consists of a contract size of 10,000 GBP and the micro lot consists of 1,000 GBP accordingly.

8. What is spread?

All currency transactions involve a Bid/Ask spread.

Spread is the difference between the Bid and Ask prices.

When trading any financial instrument, you are offered two prices; the Bid price and Ask price. The Bid price is the selling price and the Ask price refers to the price offered for buying. The difference between the Bid and Ask is called Spread and varies for each financial instrument traded.

The measurement between the two prices is usually referred to as:

- Pips - for Forex Currency Pairs
- cents - for Spot Precious Metals
- ticks - for Future (OTC): Currencies, Precious Metals, Commodities and CFDs USA
- points - for Future (OTC): Indices, Energies, CFD Indices and CFD Energies

9. What is Margin and Leverage?

Margin Trading is trading financial instruments based on Margin which is a guaranteed deposit based on a certain percentage that is requested from clients in order to open a new position. Margin guarantees the coverage of losses made by the client in the case that the market moves against him. Deposits are transferred back to the account when position is closed or hedged.

Clients are required to maintain a minimum amount of funds for each open position held in their trading account, in accordance with the chosen leverage. These funds are known as Margin Requirements and are considered to be a guarantee and not a cost.

Leverage is defined as borrowed capital, such as margin, used to increase the potential return of an investment. In cases where the client uses leverage for an investment and the market moves in the opposite direction to the client's expectation, the loss on the investment is much greater than what it would have been if the investment had not been leveraged. Leverage magnifies both profits and losses. The higher leverage, the higher the level of risk and the higher possibility of a profitable return or loss.

Once the Free Margin/available margin of a trading account falls below Margin Call level, the trading account is considered to be on Margin Call. The client is recommended to add new funds to his/her trading account in order to bring the Free Margin of the trading account to its required level. In cases where the trading account is not supported with additional funds and the Free Margin falls below the stop out level, the trading account will be stopped out.
